EDITORIAL:

Thank you for all the submissions to the Messenger this month, it is a bumper issue! There's a lot going on over the next few months, including a frog racing night, which sounds intriguing, a jumble sale and a new village book group starting up.

If you have anything you would like to submit to the Messenger, or ideas about new articles you would like to see, please email me on the address below by the 15th of the previous month.

Best wishes

Diana

Dear All,

I write this article during the Easter break, reflecting on how quickly the spring term went and yet how eventful it was. The children performed some amazing class assemblies which clearly communicated the wonderful things they had done during the term. Many children represented the school, showing excellent sportsmanship, in several competitions, with our year 4 pupils coming third in the gymnastic competition. It was also during this term that we held our own rock concert. FAPONS also organised a very successful Easter Bingo Event and the builders finally left the school site.

This summer term all the children will start new topics. In reception the children will be looking at the book 'The Jolly Postman' written by Janet and Allan Ahlberg. Each week the children will focus on one of the letters that the Jolly Postman delivers to some very well-known traditional tale characters. In Key Stage 1 the topic is 'Oh, I do like to be beside the seaside' and the children will be investigating seaside features today and what it was like to go to the seaside over 100 years ago. The teachers are also planning on taking the children to the seaside during the second half of this term so that they can experience first hand what they have been learning about.

In Lower Key Stage 2 the children will be studying 'Ancient Greece'. They will begin by learning about the key events in the beginning of the Greek empire, how democracy was introduced and what it was like to life in Greece at the time. Unfortunately, the children will not get the opportunity to go to Greece, however, it is planned that our school hall will be transformed into a Athenian Agora (marketplace) at the time. In Upper Key Stage 2 the children will be studying the Tudors and Stuarts. The children will begin by studying how the Tudors came to power, investigating the differences between life then and now. The children will then move on to look at Henry VIII and his wives and the gunpowder plot.

During the summer term we are planning two whole school projects which will involve all the children contributing to an art themed display. Our school field and reflective garden are now ready to use, much to the delight of the children. The next step is to install benches, plant flowers and erect play equipment chosen by the children. Now that we have a school field it means we can host our own sports day, something we have been unable to do for several years.

Taking full advantage of our new surroundings, FAPONS are planning a Summer Fayre which will be held on Saturday 14 July. This will be a fantastic opportunity for the school and the community to come together, we will provide more details nearer the time.

Looking forward to an exciting summer term.

Best Wishes

Lisa Sparkes

DATES FOR MAY

We had a great time at our Easter Fun afternoon. Despite the rain, all the children were eager to go out and find the clues in the Easter Egg Hunt, (taking parents with them!). The children were rewarded with an Easter Egg on their return and then spent time on a variety of crafts, while parents and friends sat and enjoyed a welcome cup of tea and cake!. Thank you to everyone who came and shared in the afternoon, helping to make it such a success.

CALLING ALL YOUNG CRICKETERS (BOYS & GIRLS – NO EXPERIENCE NECESSARY)

Last year we laid down the cricket wicket on the village playing field and now we have a superb set of equipment to use.

To get things started you are invited to come along to the playing field at 6pm on Tuesday May 8th when we will use the new kit and make arrangements for continued use of the wicket and equipment.

MUMS & DADS ESPECIALLY WELCOME

NORTON W.I.

Cruising on the QM 2 must be a dream come true for the many people who actually achieve it. Such a one, or two in this case, were Robert and Rita Lenko, who last year did this very thing as a special treat for a special birthday. Robert gave us a delightful talk on the pleasures of the cruise with beautiful slides but not before he had given us lots of interesting facts about the ship itself. The cruise takes seven days and they sailed into New York harbour early in the morning when it was still quite dark and misty but nevertheless an unforgettable experience on the birthday itself. The ship has swimming pools, a library, an art gallery and everyday there is a full programme of events, including evening entertainment. The amount of food consumed in a week is also quite mind blowing, a mere 65,000 eggs for example! All in all we spent a very happy afternoon.

Our lunches continue, the last one was to the café at Hillcrest nurseries, highly commended, and this week we shall be going back to The Fox in Bury, one of our favourite places.

The next meeting will be our AGM on Monday May 14th, later than usual because of the Bank Holiday the previous week, at the Baptist Chapel at 2pm. We shall be holding a Table Top sale at the meeting for our own funds.

If anyone is interested in joining us and would like further information please contact our Secretary Val Ford on 01359 233320 who will be able to tell you anything you want to know.

NORTON AND DISTRICT TWINNING ASSOCIATION REPORT AND UPDATES

Our next event, open to one and all, is Frog Racing (NOT real frogs!) This should be a fun event for all the family on Saturday 23rd June. Check out the details on the poster in this publication. Tickets are available now.

The sell-out Quiz Night in March held in Norton Village Hall was an outstanding success. In a keenly contested event, the quiz master's questions were pondered over by the 19 teams, the bar frequently visited to lubricate the grey matter, and stamina maintained by a tasty chilli supper. Winning teams were suitably rewarded with their prizes. Thanks to the generosity of members and supporters an impressive selection of raffle prizes was distributed to the lucky winners.

Sorry – too late now to join us on this year's Trip to Muids, France. All arrangements are now made and all places allocated.

BUT it is not too late to join Twinning and attend these member-only events:

Summer Social at our President's home on July 14th from 4pm

Progressive Supper on 15th September (details to follow later)

AGM on 25th October at 7.30 pm in Norton Village Hall where free wine will flow and cheese & bread will be available.....French of course! Jane Williams our Membership Secretary can be contacted at penrhiwgarn@hotmail.com.

Pals is an amusing and touching piece of theatre set during the first years of the Great War. Combining live percussion and realistic set, this poignant story follows Stan & George as enthusiastic pals who volunteer to join Kitchener's new army.

Their experience of life on the western front is a stark contrast to what was promised by the officers signing them up: "Back before Christmas, they said."

Embarrassing medicals, French girls, lice, rats, shrapnel, these pals will stick together through it all.

NORTON BOOK GROUP?

Many places these days have Book Reading Groups. Perhaps it is time Norton had one too! I have spoken to the Library ladies and they have lists of books that are available with enough copies for everyone. No date, time or venue has yet been decided until we know how many people are interested and then we can work out the best time, day etc. to suit as many people as possible.

If you are interested please get in touch with me, Helen Taylor, 01359 230601 or send an email to:- cranmers60@googlemail.com

DOWN OUR STREET – FOLLOW UP.

I have had a reply to the article I posted in March about Brian Watts-Plumpkin's time in Norton during the war. I have been contacted by his brother Mervyn who wrote the following letter.

Dear David,

I would like to add a few things of interest regarding the letter from my brother Brian, printed in 'The Norton Messenger' March 2018.

My father was Algernon Augustus Watts-Plumpkin born 1903 in Bury St Edmunds and grew up in Norton. He was a sailor in the R.N. based in Portsmouth where he met my mother Winifred. The family lived in the city, but dad was away on duty. Being a military city with a dockyard, it was, naturally, a target for enemy bombers. We had many air-raids and were 'bombed out' twice. It was after the huge Blitz of January 10th/11th during which we spent the entire night in a shelter kept awake by the noise. We emerged when the 'all clear' sounded and all around was devastation, smoke, and the smell of burning and cordite. On another occasion we were staying at an uncles' house in Widley, North Portsmouth, and had a bomb burst very near to our Anderson shelter which we were occupying at the time, we could not go back into the house due to damage and spent a couple of nights sleeping in a school nearby.

My Mum decided it was too dangerous for us in Pompey and as my father had contacts in Suffolk, that is when we moved to Norton. So, my brother Brian, sister Jeanette and I spent many happy years in Norton with our many friends and even today, I am still talking and reminiscing with Molly Lumley ( nee Cocksedge), after 70 odd years, lovely, isn't it.

During the war years Mum worked on a farm; Frank Downing was the farmer. Mum had many friends that also did VERY important work keeping the food supply going, Violet Cocksedge, Annie Rose, Lou Boughem, I believe her husband drove a steam-roller. I think Charley Brinkley worked on the farm, I would often ride up on the tumbril as we went along while the tough young women loaded up the tumbril with sacks of spuds, or other vegetables, these sacks weighed 1cwt I believe ....weren't these girls tough.

One cold and frosty day Mum chopped off part of her index finger with the billhook she was using to remove the top of beet, she was taken to Bury hospital. I think she must've been frozen...it was probably sugar beet, or wurzles. (For those of you who are unfamiliar with Wurzels, they were also known as mangelwurzels or mangolds. Very similar to sugar beet, they were chopped and used as winter cattle-fodder). The 'spuds' were put in a clamp, and when needed were taken out, along with rats that had taken refuge in the clamps as they did in the numerous haystacks and when the threshing season came we, as boys, would chase the rats that came flying out as the workers with pitchforks put the sheaves into the 'drum' that was humming away, often driven by a traction engine.....the sight and smell of these events I will never forget. Molly's brother, Eric, Brian and I would make many 'forages' out into the lovely countryside, learning much about wildlife, and we felt safe, although there was a nasty war going on. The pond we knew best was the long narrow one opposite Howes's farm. In winter, when frozen, we kids would spend hours making long 'slides' on the ice. The pond had a steel fence to the road side, this is where my brother Brian had two front teeth accidentally kicked out as he was performing on the steel tubes....cor! no such thing as 'health & safety' in those years....we even played conkers and used a skipping rope!!

I could go on.... I have many memories of village life and the Americans that came and many never returned from missions....very sad.

We returned to Pompey in 1947.

Regards. Mervyn.

P.S. I forgot to add date of the night that made Mum decide to get us kids out. The heavy raid on Portsmouth that decided it, was Jan.10th/11th 1941. I also believe that was the night when an estimated 25,000 incendiary bombs fell on the City. There began our 6 years in Suffolk.

DOWN OUR STREET.

From 1841, census information allows us to picture the people who lived in our village, as names, ages (within 5 years) and occupations of the inhabitants are available for us to research. From 1851 onwards, we also get actual ages, places of birth, and relationships to the head of the family. Further information can be gleaned from Directories such as Pigot's, White's Suffolk and Kelly's Post Office Directory, which give an insight into people involved in the principal trades and professions.

Over the years, Norton has had a varied group of people living and working within the village. For many items and services, the village would have been self-sufficient with other non-locally produced necessities being traded in from wholesalers at Bury St Edmunds and other large towns.

Looking at information available, Norton had the following:- J.P., Rectors, Curates, Baptist Pastors, Doctors, Surgeons, Apothecaries, Nurses, Vets, Grocers, Shopkeepers, Engineers, Wheelwrights, Blacksmiths, Millers, Bakers, Shoemakers, Carriers, Butchers, Policemen, Drapers, Tailors, Dressmakers, Rake makers, Publicans, Farmers, Builders, Bricklayers, Sawyers, Carpenters, Plumbers, Glaziers, Thatchers, Ironmongers, Coopers, Maltsters, Clock and watch makers, School teachers, Saddle and Harness makers, Quarry-men, Laundresses, Game keepers and many Agricultural labourers and I have probably missed several others. All of these served the local community.

This month I would like to concentrate on one trade, namely that of a rake maker.

Although not originally from our village, members of the Last family made rakes in Norton for over 30 years.

Samuel and Henry Last seem to have lived in Halls Lane, probably in the small cottage next to the main road.

There is no real record of the origins of rake making, but wherever agriculture has thrived so has rake making. Hand rakes in the 1800s and early 1900s were essential pieces of farm equipment, used for collecting hay ready for loading into wagons, combing and straightening the sides of ricks, combing thatch etc. (Hay was an essential commodity in those times, as fodder for livestock). Until 1930, the hay harvest was a vast communal affair, and hay rakes were in considerable demand – and wherever there was suitable coppice wood, there would be a rake maker's yard. Rakes in this part of the country were made almost entirely from ash, with a typical splayed end to hold the head. (Ash has always been scarcer in the North of England, so there the prized wood was reserved for the rake head and the handles and tines were made from less flexible timber.

The head on these was strengthened by hazel bows either side of the handle).

The size of rake was chosen depending upon the type of grass to be raked and the height of the user. Having a well-balanced, light rake was essential, especially when raking all day. Another important factor was the smoothness of the stail - handle. The stail has to slide easily through the hand as it is drawn back and forth during the raking process.

A rake has three parts, the tines, head (the block that holds all the tines) and the stail (handle). The tines were made by taking a six-inch diameter log of ash (or willow) cut to the length of the tines required. A piece of twine was tied tightly around the log. The log was then split into equal parallel cuts with a froe and mallet. The log was cut one way and then at 90 degrees to that, so ending up with lots of square cut potential tines. (Photo 1).

A tine-former in the form of an iron tube with the diameter of the tine was then used to shape the tines. It was attached to a driving stool with a bucket under it to catch the falling tines. The square ash tine was simply placed over the tine former and hit with the mallet. (Photo 2).

The head was made and shaped out of a suitable length of green Ash and then placed on a peg marker. When hit on the marker small holes were punched into the surface showing where holes were to be bored for the tines and split handle. Heads could have up to 30 tines. The tines were wetted and hammered through the head. The tips would then be sharpened. As the green wood of the head dried out, it gripped the tines tightly. The handle was a straight pole which was rounded with a stail engine, a kind of circular plane, twisting it all the way down the pole to finish it off. (Photo 3).

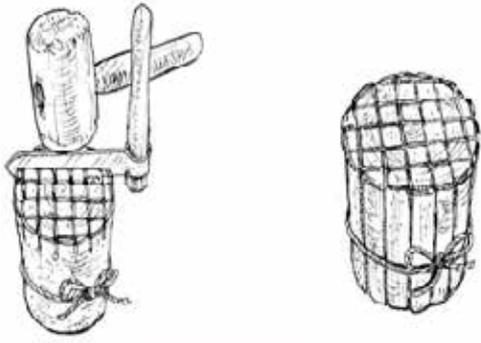

The end of the split would be marked on the stail and thick wire bound round before cleaving. (Photo 4). This prevented the handle splitting too far. The ends were shaped and presented to the two remaining pre-bored holes and knocked in. In many cases, the rake maker then spun the rake to make sure the finished rake was well balanced.

Photos 5 & 6 show workers at harvest using rakes.

For many years there was a rake factory at Little Whelnetham which used coppiced Ash from Bradfield Woods.

Can I recommend readers who are interested, to look at YouTube :- 'How to make a rake', 'Hay rake making' and 'Rake making a lost tradition'.

Apology. It has been pointed out by a reader that the original Plumber's Arms did not appear on the Enclosure map of 1812 but was shown on the Tithe map of 1839, so must have been built between those dates.
